“KATHRYN ANDREWS: RUN FOR PRESIDENT”

MUSEUM OF CONTEMPORARY ART, CHICAGO

NOVEMBER 21 - MAY 8

Los Angeles-based up-and-comer Kathryn Andrews gets her first museum show with “Run for President,” an exhibition that loosely follows the arc of an elected president. Andrews’s Pop-inspired assisted readymades, which often feature film stills, will track the rise and fall of an American leader, using that narrative as an allegory for the career of an artist. Though theoretically loaded, Andrews’s work is also funny—her interest in the instability of images is tempered by her use of pictures of fruit, sailors, and clowns.
