

Art Basel 2016: skyscrapers and spacemen - in pictures

The international art market's biggest shop window, Art Basel offers something for everyone - as long as they come to the fair with a large cheque book

Art Basel 2016: works on snooping and migration amid the millions

Sat 18 Jun 2016 04.45 EDT

Two figures one laughing at one hanging, by Juan Muñoz at the Elvira González gallery

• Two figures one laughing at one hanging, by Juan Muñoz at the Elvira González gallery

- My mother's charms, by Gillian Wearing, at Maureen Paley.

● Labor Day by Kathryn Andrews at the David Kordansky Gallery

-
- Chiharu Shiota's Accumulation, Searching for destination proves of interest to a young art lover

Photograph: Sipa/Rex/Shutterstock

● Bernard Jacobson Gallery displays the popular Alexander Calder work Blue Flower, Perforated Red (hanging from ceiling)

- Becoming part of the art, visitors perform in the Zoom Pavilion by Mexican-Canadian artist Rafael Lozano-Hemmer and Polish-Canadian artist Krzysztof Wodiczko
Photograph: Georgios Kefalas/EPA

• Sol LeWitt's Irregular Tower at the Alfonso Artiaco gallery

Photograph: Art Basel

- - Tony Oursler's template/variant/friend/stranger is presented by the Lisson Gallery
- Photograph: Sipa/Rex/Shutterstock

• Caterpillar Suit IV by Walter Oltmann at the Goodman Gallery

Topics

- Art